Moravian missionaries have come into the Cherokee Nation to open a mission. The Cherokees want it to also serve as a school. Can a compromise be reached, or must the Moravians “return”? Meanwhile, the missionaries themselves fail to fit in. Can the right couple be found to make it all work? 436 p., hardcover   $40.00

Vol. 3, The Anna Rosina Years, Part 1: Success in School and Mission, 1805-1810. John and Anna Rosina Gambold arrive at the mission and give it new life. Anna is dedicated to the education of Cherokee children, and soon wins respect. Chief Chuleoa, an early mission opponent, becomes their friend. James Vann, the Moravians’ benefactor dies, but the first Cherokee is baptized. 632 pages, hardcover        $40.00

Vol. 4, The Anna Rosina Years, Part 2: Warfare on the Horizon. 1810-1816. Earthquakes seem to usher in a period of upheaval stretching from the Creeks to Canada to Napoleon in Europe. Meanwhile, Anna Rosina and her husband John Gambold carry on alone with their students at the little Moravian mission called Springplace. 620 pages, hardcover             $40.00

Records of the Moravians Among the Cherokees, vols. 1-4

Volume 1, 1752-1802: Early Contact and the Establishment of the First Mission. Following decades of exploratory meetings, Cherokee chiefs permit Moravian missionaries to “make an experiment” to “instruct us and our children.” And with little fanfare the Springplace mission is begun on July 13, 1801. 426 p., hardcover   $40.00

Vol. 2, Beginnings of the Mission and Establishment of the School, 1802 - 1805. Moravian missionaries have come into the Cherokee Nation to open a mission. The Cherokees want it to also serve as a school. Can a compromise be reached, or must the Moravians “return”? Meanwhile, the missionaries themselves fail to fit in. Can the right couple be found to make it all work? 436 p., hardcover   $40.00

Vol. 3, The Anna Rosina Years, Part 1: Success in School and Mission, 1805-1810. John and Anna Rosina Gambold arrive at the mission and give it new life. Anna is dedicated to the education of Cherokee children, and soon wins respect. Chief Chuleoa, an early mission opponent, becomes their friend. James Vann, the Moravians’ benefactor dies, but the first Cherokee is baptized. 632 pages, hardcover        $40.00

Vol. 4, The Anna Rosina Years, Part 2: Warfare on the Horizon. 1810-1816. Earthquakes seem to usher in a period of upheaval stretching from the Creeks to Canada to Napoleon in Europe. Meanwhile, Anna Rosina and her husband John Gambold carry on alone with their students at the little Moravian mission called Springplace. 620 pages, hardcover             $40.00

Pre-orders for Vol. 5 are being accepted. delivery expected Spring 2013 -- $40.00
The Life and Times of Reverend Stephen Foreman

The Life and Times of Reverend Stephen Foreman. By Cooleela Faulkner.

Stephen Foreman, born 1807, was the son of a white father and a Cherokee mother. He was both a teacher and a native preacher who was actively involved in translating the Bible and other items into Cherokee. During the forced removal of the Cherokees he was an assistant conductor of one of the thirteen detachments.

Foreman was also a signer of the 1839 Constitution, clerk of the National Committee, the first Superintendent of Education, a delegate to Washington, and Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the Cherokee Nation. He served on several boards including that of the Cherokee Female Seminary and the Cherokee Asylum for the Insane, Deaf and Dumb, Blind, and Indigent.

Cooleela Faulkner has presented an excellent portrayal of his life in this work – much of which is in his own words as taken from his journals and letters. $25.00

A Guide to the Cherokee National Museum Newspaper Collection

The newspaper collection of the Cherokee National Museum consists of more than 500 issues with a reference to the Cherokee Nation. Many of these were printed during the Removal period in eastern cities and reflect the mood of that part of the country. The guide is an index and offers the researcher a valuable tool.

Softcover, 80 pages, $20.00

The Development of Law and Legal Institutions Among the Cherokees

The Development of Law and Legal institutions Among the Cherokees. By Thomas L. Ballenger.

The author traces the evolution of Cherokee law from pre-contact practices to how it was influenced by English and American law and ultimately how it was codified.

Hardcover, 174 p. $35.00

The Teachers of the Cherokee Nation Public Schools: 1870’s-1907

The Teachers of the Cherokee Nation Public Schools: 1870’s-1907. by James McCullagh

In addition to the seminaries, the Cherokee Nation had an extensive system of local public schools. Contained in this book are the names of the teachers that taught in both the seminaries and public school system and which schools they were assigned to in each year, as well as commentary about the educational system. There is also a listing of those teachers who attended the male or female seminary.

Soft cover, 302 pages. $20.00

By Cullen Joe Holland, edited by James P. Pate. Indian journalism was born at New Echota, Georgia with the publication of the first issue of the Cherokee Phoenix on February 21, 1828. Holland skillfully covers the growth of this newspaper, how Cherokee font was acquired and the problems it faced internally until its confiscation by the Georgia militia in 1834. On September 26, 1844 the newspaper was reborn as the Cherokee Advocate. Photographs of many editors and their printers are included in the book. The Advocate was printed from 1844 to 1853 and from 1870 until its closing in 1906.

Hardcover, 584 pages $45.00

Pre-orders are being accepted at this time, delivery is expected in December 2012